

REPRESENTED TALENT

Dave Murray

Award-winning investigative journalist, author, podcast maker and speaker

AUSTRALIA | AVAILABLE BY ARRANGEMENT

PROFILE

David Murray is an award-winning Australian investigative journalist, author and podcast maker. A journalist since 1997, he has held senior crime and courts roles and works as The Australian's national crime correspondent. His work combines court reporting, source development, documentary research and clear public explanation of complex criminal cases.

EXPERTISE

Crime and justice

Investigative journalism

Courts and evidence

Podcast production

Missing-person investigations

BOOKINGS & ENQUIRIES

two-unknowns.vercel.app/talent/dave-murray

Ways to work together

Keynotes and talks

Conferences, universities, newsrooms and community events.

Panels and Q&A

Crime reporting, justice, investigations, ethics and public-interest journalism.

Hosting and media appearances

Expert commentary, live interviews and recorded formats.

Workshops

Source development, documentary research, court reporting and investigative method.

Selected highlights

- National crime correspondent at The Australian.
- Author of The Murder of Allison Baden-Clay.
- Creator and host of Searching for Rachel Antonio and The Lighthouse.
- Queensland Journalist of the Year; member of the Walkley-winning Shandee's Story team.

“Rigorous reporting, compelling public-interest storytelling.”

TWO UNKNOWNNS POSITIONING STATEMENT

PUBLIC SOURCES

penguin.com.au/authors/david-murray
mediaweek.com.au/new-podcast-the-lighthouse podcasts.apple.com/au/podcast/the-lighthouse/id1484039787
walkleys.com/awards/walkley-winners-archive